No worries Michelle. I am totally okay with the occasional separate path. It would be nice to be unified but I think we may encounter this from time to time.

Hi Sue,

Sorry for the late response. Our D.C. Office reviewed and signed-off on the earlier version of the letter, so we're pretty locked in. At this point, I would only be able to agree to minimal changes that don't change the tone or spirit of the letter.

Sorry, Sue! I know all of us signing on is a stronger approach, but I also understand and support SoCalGas submitting a solo version. I know SCE would be willing to do that, when warranted.

I am willing to discuss process and anything else on this topic if needed (tomorrow I will be in Sacramento but Charles is in the office).

Thanks!

Michelle

Hey there,

I haven't heard anything from any of the other IOU's. At the very least I need to know if you all think we can come to some sort of consensus or not.

Let me know what your timing is for a decision.

Thanks!

Sue

Checking in to see if there are any thoughts on this version.

Subject: IOU Comment Letter to DOE

Good afternoon managers,

Based on conversations I had with each of you we've modified the comment letter to reflect a more measured response to the DOE's inquiry. I see their RFI as an opportunity for us to shape where we want them to go and if we simply agree with all that has been in the past we run the risk of this administration eliminating EERE altogether (that is up for discussion and has some support). It behooves us to come up with valid and reasonable recommendations for improvement so that we can get through the next years and beyond.

I will note that we added the element of the furnace rule methodology and although I mentioned that we may be willing to remove that from the main letter with all four IOU's, I'm not sure that my upper management is supportive of that offer, they are still reviewing and feel that is an important element for us. Note that we are not requesting that the DOE throw out the Monte Carlo method, just conduct a review of how it interacts with the different measures that are considered and have a good peer review of the result to ensure we don't end up where we did with the furnace rule. I think it's a reasonable request.

Please review the attached revised (redline) version to see if we are able to find common ground and sign on together as the four California IOU's. If you could review as quickly as possible and get back to me, we are low on time with the comments due on Friday.

Thanks!
